Making a Simple Animation Creating simple animations can be a bit tricky in After Effects. You must make it easy for users to see the changes that are occurring. The following steps walk you through the process of making a simple animation, such as a fade-in or fade-out transition: 1. Choose File⇒New to create an empty After Effects file. 2. Choose File⇒Open and browse to the folder that contains the image you want to use. 3. Choose Image⇒Image Size to resize the image in the frame to the proportions you want the animation to have. 4. Choose File⇒Save to save your file. Figure 2-18 shows the process of creating a simple 2D animation. Figure 2-18: Use the Image Size option to scale the image in the layer. 5. Select the Track (E) tool and place the cursor in the middle of the frame. The In and Out options of the Track (E) tool let you select the path along which the animation will occur. The Path Editor lets you draw a new path using any of the tools, including the Line and Curve tools. 6. Choose the In (O) tool and start drawing an oval. Photoshop In this article, we'll walk you through how to use Photoshop, how it compares to Apple software, and how to use the file structure and some of the editing tools available to you. Adobe Photoshop is a vector graphics editor that lets you retouch, redraw, and edit images. You can use Photoshop to edit individual images, or create entire photo projects or Web graphics. You can use Photoshop as part of a larger software package such as Final Cut Pro or iMovie. Or you can use Photoshop on its own, without any other software, or as a standalone app. And you can use it to edit graphic design and illustration files for print or Web. You can use Photoshop on a Mac, iPad, iPhone, and iPod touch, or a Windows or Linux computer. And you can create Photoshop projects that include multiple images as well as audio and video. Photoshop on the Mac includes animation tools, as well as timeline tools. You can also use Photoshop to create graphics for websites using Fireworks as a vector graphics editor. Many images on the web are created using Photoshop, because of its quality. For instance, you'll often see a watermark on the bottom left of images, with an Adobe or Photoshop logo, because it's easier for companies to use professionally created images than to create their own. Adobe Photoshop Elements Adobe Photoshop Elements is a photo editor with fewer features than Photoshop. So if you need to create a project that requires a lot of pixel-level editing, or use a task like converting or retouching an image, you might use Adobe Photoshop Elements. Photoshop Elements isn't a powerhouse, but it's a great all-around image editor. You can tweak and edit individual files, as well as create new projects with multiple images. If you need a simple Photoshop project, you can use Photoshop Elements. If you use Photoshop Elements for a while, you'll come to appreciate the simplicity. I love having an app that does everything I need for work and lets me move on to something else when I'm done. The key difference between Photoshop Elements and Photoshop is that Photoshop Elements is included in the free version of Office 365. If you're serious about photography, you'll probably end up needing the entire Adobe suite, including Photoshop, so you might want to check out our Adobe photography tutorial. Shares in Cosatu's health insurer, MediShield, began to slide on Wednesday as it prepares to launch its long-awaited stress test on Wednesday. The performance of MediShield, the pillar of the Cosatu tripartite alliance, will be closely watched by several companies that are contemplating mergers and a record number of merger and acquisition (M&A) deals. Paramedics strike for...pay. Cosatu's health insurer, MediShield, is preparing for its annual results, which will be released on Wednesday. Although the preliminary results for 2014 were broadly impressive, about 40% of retail medical consumers have not signed up, indicating that there is potential for cost reduction. The insurer has been stockpiling money to offer a high level of subsidies to cover the treatment costs of the uninsured, but there is a risk that unexpected costs may eat into this reserve. Cosatu wants the stress test results to point to what it sees as MediShield's market weakness, to show that its insurance model is sustainable. Over the years, Cosatu has taken a different approach to the non-union health insurer, which is owned and operated by the unions in each of the three constituent groups, IndustriALL, the South African Clothing and Textile Workers Union and the National Union of Metalworkers of South Africa. By Rick Reeno BoxingScene.com has been advised that the New York State Athletic Commission (NYSAC) has received formal applications for two separate fights between Canelo Alvarez and Erislandy Lara in New York City. Alvarez (49-1-1, 34KOs) is expected to get the nod on November 2nd, after Canelo scored an emphatic 12 round decision over George Groves last weekend. Alvarez meets Lara (34-2, 23KOs) on the same night. Alvarez and Lara have dated on and off for about three years. They were often seen together and even got engaged during the lead up to the fight, but ended their engagement several months ago. Canelo-Lara has been a long time coming, as they both have wanted a unification fight, however, Canelo, who is considered one of the top stars in boxing, is currently coming off a yearlong suspension handed down to him by the NYSAC for failing his two drug tests in 2016. Canelo is mandatory challenger for IBF welterweight champion Kell Brook (28-0, 19KOs) in April. Sources close to negotiations for the fight have told BoxingScene.com that Canelo has rejected an offer from Lara to face him in a catch-weight bout on November 2nd at the Barclays Center in Brooklyn. The offer, which was first discussed about a year ago, included the money, the location and the date. The trio - Mayweather Promotions, Golden Boy Promotions and Canelo Promotions - had been working diligently to finalize the business side of the deal since March. It was viewed as a logical fight, as both Alvarez and Lara are ranked inside the top 10 by the IBF and WBC, respectively. However, according to the sources, Canelo has refused to pay any taxes on the deal and has asked to make more money before agreeing to the fight. At this point, one of the most likely options for Alvarez is a rematch against WBO junior welterweight champion Julius Indongo (27-0, 19KOs) in December. Indongo, a prospect at 26 years old, is coming off an impressive 8th round stoppage over previously undefeated Emiliano Marsili in March. The South African southpaw is already in camp for the Alvarez fight. But a source close to the situation revealed that, despite the
