Search Result For Now i can avoid using Photoshop since i can do this with my word processor and now my original vector file looks perfect. Thank you for a fantastic tool. It's a must have for every designer who creates illustrations. Your work is fantastic and it's very inspiring. Good job. "Creative is contagious, so is sharing your work. thanks so much for this video2brain"! but when i open my files, they don't look like that anymore. Their colors are all wrong, and the gradation of colors is different. It looks like a very low quality scan. If I export it to PNG or JPG will it look like the screenshot? I'm not a designer, but this looks like a really good resource to learn how to make simple design. For those who haven't seen it, there's a free "2D" Photoshop template on "flickr" linked from the video2brain page. Excellent resource as always! I have some advanced Photoshop training, and I must say I've used the "Save for Web & Devices" feature quite a lot! I just wish I had seen the "2D" template sooner! Loved the review, and the template link is a welcome addition! Thanks for the great comments and links, Volha. We hope you can share your progress with our community. And many thanks for sharing your progress with us too! Hi Dave, thanks for the constructive comment, really appreciate the comment. I'm trying to put the limits of Photoshop. I'm aiming to release the next version of Video2brain with a simplified GUI and the ability to distribute the project file as a compressed package. Posted Thanks for your comment and feedback. Posted Video2brain is a Photoshop action that generates vector vector photos and graphics. You can use it as a Photoshop action, create 2D vector images or create 3D vector images. Look at the screenshot above and use the Exact Target URL provided to create an Inbox list. In the URL, there is a query string that you can modify. You can modify the query string with many options. There is a "Campaign Builder Tutorial" that shows how to use the query string. Great tutorial, however the second example you provided using Save For Web & Devices was not working for me, instead giving me the error "Save For Web & Devices dialog not responding. Please try again later." Are you aware of Recurrent aortic arch obstruction is a rare but feared complication. Aortic arch reconstruction in patients with previous cardiac surgery can be challenging due to various acquired and acquired anatomic abnormalities. We report a case of a 14-year-old female who underwent two-staged procedure for the management of severe obstruction of the aortic arch following previous repair of tetralogy of Fallot and ventricular septal defect. The first stage involved reconstruction of the right isthmus using the right innominate artery. The second stage involved hemisternotomy and aortic arch reconstruction with the help of the right common carotid artery, right and left axillary arteries.Q: How to perform a semi-complex query? I am trying to write a query that will select all the names where a person has at least one sale between two dates. For example: Person SaleDate xyz 2019-01-01 xyz 2019-02-01 abc 2019-01-01 abc 2019-04-01 I know my sales and dates need to be dates as well, but I am struggling with the where clause. I have attempted to try writing this as: select distinct Person, SaleDate from table where ((Person = 'xyz' and SaleDate >= '2019-01-01' and SaleDate = '2019-01-01' and SaleDate
